

Claudio Nold
Sihlberg 30
8002 Zurich

+41 79 573 5276
cldnld@gmail.com

the best company ever
where the magic happens
somewhere out there

Zurich, today in 2024

DONT HIRE (JUST) THIS MAN

Hello there

It's a great pleasure and honor that you have made it all the way to the download section of my application campaign. Let the following lines finally convince you that we are the ONE you've been longing for.

This may sound a bit unconventional, but first, I strongly advise against hiring the individual in boardshorts unless you plan to adjust working hours according to tide movements and powder days. He's a great guy, but for myself and the other candidate represented in this application process, I can assure you that we will not only meet but potentially exceed your expectations. However, I leave the choice to you, of course.

Specialized at the crossroads of sustainable design, marketing, and sales, there is a whole lot of things we can do, and as long as there is a sustainable drive within your company that goes deeper than just using recycled polyester for that green hangtag. Because there is a lot more to be done to save tomorrow's world for good.

With my creative and outgoing personality, combined with research and creation skills, B2B and B2C sales experience, networking abilities, and a profound expertise and love for the outdoors, snow, and watersports, a position at yours would surely present itself as an exciting upcoming challenge.

Please feel free to download all the documents you need, and feel free to contact me at any time for more in-depth information. We are ready to relocate wherever you may be, as the world is so much bigger than Zurich and Switzerland.

I would gratefully welcome the opportunity to meet and discuss how you and I could mutually benefit from and sustainably grow with each other.

Keep the stoke high, and kind regards,

Claudio